

Index

#

A

Acceptance – Section 7.1.2; Section 7.2

Actor-observer bias – Section 4.2.4.4

Aegism – Section 9.1.3.3

Affective forecasting – Section 4.1.5.2

Aggression – Module 10

 Types of – Section 10.1.1

Aggression schemas – Section 10.3.5

Alcohol use and aggression – Section 10.4.5

Allport, Floyd – Section 1.2.3

Allport, Gordon – Section 1.2.4

Altruistic behavior – Section 11.1.1

Altruistic personality, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.3

Amygdala, and aggression – Section 10.3.2.1

Anchoring and adjustment heuristic – Section 4.1.4.7

Anger – Section 10.1.1

Appeals, one or two sided – Section 6.2.2.4

Applied science – Section 1.1.3

Archival research – Section 2.2.8

Arousal, and aggression – Section 10.3.7

Asch, Solomon – Section 1.2.4; Section 7.3.1

Attachment – Section 12.1.2.3

Attitudes – Section 5.1

 About Groups – Section 9.1.1

 and Attitude specificity – Section 5.2.2.4

 and Attitude strength – Section 5.2.2.3

 Influence on social thought – Section 5.2.1

 Origins of – Section 5.1.2

 Prediction of behavior – Section 5.2.2

 and Situational constraints – Section 5.2.2.1

 Structure and function of – Section 5.1.1

 and Time pressure – Section 5.2.2.2

Attraction – Module 12

 Factors on – Section 12.2

Attractiveness, and persuasion – Section 6.2.1.2

Attribution theory – Section 4.2.1; 9.2.5

Attributional ambiguity – Section 9.2.5

Audience inhibition, and helping behavior – Section 11.3.2

Autokinetic effect study – Section 7.2.1

Automata – Section 1.2.1.1

Authoritarian personality – Section 9.2.4

Availability heuristic – Section 4.2.4.4

B

Base-rate fallacy – Section 4.1.4.7

Basic science – Section 1.1.3

“Bask-in-reflected-glory” (BIRG) effect – Section 3.2.6

Beauty bias – Section 12.2.3

Behavior prediction models, of attitudes – Section 5.2.2.5

Belief in a just world – Section 4.2.4.3

Belief perseverance – Section 4.1.4.4

“Better than average” effect – Section 3.2.6

Bullying – Section 10.2.4

 Prevention of – Section 10.5.1

Bystander effect, and helping behavior – Section 11.3.1

C

Case studies – Section 2.2.2

Categories – Section 4.1.4.1

Catharsis – Section 10.5.4

Central route, to persuasion – Section 6.1.2

Clark, Kenneth and Mamie – Section 1.2.4

Cognitive dissonance theory – Section 5.3.2

Collectivistic, culture – Section 3.1.5

Communicating findings – Section 1.4

Communicators, and persuasion – Section 6.2.1

Comparison of sociology and social/personality research articles – Section 1.1.4

Compliance – Section 7.1.2; Section 7.3

Confirmatory hypothesis testing – Section 4.1.4.4

Conformity – Section 7.1.1

Conjunction error – Section 4.1.4.7

Consistency bias – Section 4.1.4.5

Contact hypothesis – Section 9.3.2

Correlation research – Section 2.2.4

Correspondence inference theory – Section 4.2.2

Counterfactual thinking – Section 4.2.4.6

Covariation theory – Section 4.2.3

Creative synthesis – Section 1.2.1.1

Credibility, and persuasion – Section 6.2.1.1

Crime – Section 10.2.1

Critical thinking – Section 2.1

Cross-cultural psychology – Section 1.3.3

Crowding, and aggression – Section 10.4.8

Cyberbullying – Section 10.1.1; Section 10.2.3

Cults – Section 6.3

Resisting the temptation of – Section 6.3.2

Culture – Section 3.1.5

Culture of honor – Section 10.4.1

D

Dark Triad – Section 10.3.3

Deception, in revealing who we are – Section 4.1.3.10

Decision making, and helping behavior – Section 11.3.2

Defensive pessimism – Section 3.4.3

Dehumanization – Section 10.3.5

Deindividuation – Section 8.2.3.1

Descriptive statistics – Section 2.1

Determinism – Section 1.2.1.1

Diffusion of responsibility, and helping behavior – Section 11.3.2

Disability discrimination – Section 9.1.3.5

Discounting principle – Section 4.2.3

Discrimination – Section 9.1.1.2

Displacement – Section 10.3.1

Dispositional optimism – Section 3.4.3

Domains of the self – Section 3.1.3

Domestic violence – Section 10.2.5

Door-in-the-face phenomenon – Section 6.2.2.3

Dualism – Section 1.2.1.1

Duchene smile – Section 4.1.3.10

E

- Egotistical behavior – Section 11.1.1
- Emotion, in person perception – Section 4.1.3.9
- Emotional appeals, and persuasion – Section 2.2.2
- Empathy, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.8
- Empiricism – Section 1.2.1.1
- Epistemology – Section 1.2.1.1
- Equity theory – Section 12.3.2
- Ethics – Section 1.2.1.1
 - Guidelines – Section 9.3.3.
 - In research – Section 2.4
 - Examples of violations – Sections 2.4.1 & 2.4.2
- Event schemas – Section 4.1.4.2
- Evolutionary psychology – Section 1.3.2; Section 11.1.2
- Excitation transfer theory – Section 10.3.7
- Exemplars – Section 4.1.4.2
- Experimentation – Section 2.1
- Experiments – Section 2.2.6
- Explicit attitudes – Section 9.1.2
- Eye contact – Section 4.1.3.5

F

Facial expressions – Section 4.1.3.3

False consensus effect – Section 3.4.2

False modesty – Section 3.3.2

False uniqueness effect – Section 3.4.2

Festinger – Section 1.2.4

Foot-in-the door phenomenon – Section 6.2.2.3

Forgiveness – Section 12.4.2

Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse – Section 12.4.1

Framing – Section 4.1.5.1

Free riding – Section 8.2.2.2

Frustration-aggression hypothesis – Section 10.4.3

Fundamental attribution error – Section 4.2.4.1

G

Gap – Section 2.1

Generalizability – Section 2.2.2; 2.5.2

Gender, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.7

Group – Section 8.1

Groupthink – Section 8.3.1

Group polarization – Section 8.3.2

Group serving bias – Section 9.2.5

H

Halo effect – Section 4.1.3.8; Section 12.2.3

Helping behavior – Module 11

Heritability, and aggression – Section 10.3.2.3

Heuristics – Section 6.1.2

Hippocampus, and aggression – Section 10.3.2.1

Hostile (physical) aggression – Section 10.1.1

Hostile attribution bias – Section 10.3.5

Hypothesis – Section 2.1

I

Implicit attitudes – Section 9.1.2

Individualistic, culture – Section 3.1.5

Inferential statistics – Section 2.1

Ingratiation – Section 3.3.2

Ingroup favoritism – Section 9.2.1

Ingroups – Section 9.2.1

Instinct (theory) – Section 10.3.1

Instrumental aggression – Section 10.1.1

Internet – Section 1.3.4

Interpersonal attraction – Section 12.1.1

Intimacy – Section 12.2.7

Intolerance – Section 9.2.3

Introspection – Section 3.1.2.2

J

Janis – Section 1.2.4

Jealousy – Section 12.3.4.1

Jigsaw classroom – Section 9.3.3

Jonestown, a cult – Section 6.3.1

Judgments – Section 4.1.5

K

Kin selection – Section 11.1.2

L

Laboratory observation – Section 2.2.1

Learning theory, and aggression – Section 10.4.2

Lewin – Section 1.2.3

Literature review – Section 2.1

Locus of control – Section 3.2.3

Logic – Section 1.2.1.1

Loneliness – Section 12.1.1

Looking-glass self – Section 3.1.4.1

Love – Section 12.3.4

Lowballing – Section 6.2.2.3

M

Mate selection – Section 12.2.8

McDougall – Section 1.2.3

Matching hypothesis – Section 12.2.4

Measurement – Section 2.1

Media, and aggression – Section 10.4.6

Mere exposure effect – Section 12.2.2

Message content, and persuasion – Section 6.2.2

Meta-analysis – Section 2.2.9

Metaphysics – Section 1.2.1.1

Microexpressions – Section 4.1.3.10

Milgram – Section 1.2.4; Section 7.4.1

Misinformation effect – Section 4.1.4.5

Modeling helping behavior – Section 11.4.1

Mood, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.6

Moral character – Section 4.1.3.6

Multi-cultural research – Section 1.3.3

Multi-method research – Section 2.2.7

N

Naturalistic observation – Section 2.2.1

Need for cognition – Section 6.1.2

Need for uniqueness – Section 7.5.3

Need to affiliate/belong – Section 12.1.1

Negative affect, and aggression – Section 10.3.4

Negative reciprocity beliefs – Section 10.3.5

Negativity effect – Section 4.1.3.8

Nervous system,

 Communication in – Section 4.1.1.1

 Parts of – Section 4.1.1.2

Nonconformity – Section 7.5

Nonverbal communication – Section 4.1.3.7

Nonverbal leakage – Section 4.1.3.10

Norms – Section 3.1.5

 And helping behavior – Section 11.3.3

O

Obedience – Section 7.1.2; Section 7.4

Observation – Section 2.1

Observational learning – Section 9.2.2

Observational research – Section 2.2.1

Operant conditioning – Section 9.2.2

Optimism – Section 3.4.3

Outgroup homogeneity effect – Section 9.2.1

Outgroups – Section 9.2.1

Overconfidence phenomenon – Section 4.1.5.2

P

Perceived self-interest, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.9

Perception – Section 4.1.1.1

Perceptual contrast – Section 6.2.2.3

Peripheral route, to persuasion – Section 6.1.2

Person perception – Section 4.1.1

Person schemas – Section 4.1.4.2

Personality psychology, definition of – Section 1.1.1

Personality traits – Section 4.1.3.4

Persuasion – Module 6

 Schema for – Section 6.1.1

Philosophy – Section 1.2.1.1

Physical cues – Section 4.1.3.1

Physiology – Section 1.2.1.1

Placebo effect – Section 4.1.4.6

Play – Section 12.1.2.2

Possible selves – Section 3.1.2.3

Positive illusions – Section 3.2.6

Positivity bias – Section 4.1.3.8

Prejudice – Section 9.1.1.2

Primacy effect – Section 4.1.4.4

Priming – Section 4.1.5.1

Professional journals and societies – Section 1.4

Prosocial behavior – Section 11.1.1

 Evolutionary precedent – Section 11.1.2

Prototypes – Section 4.1.4.2

Punishment, as a deterrence to aggression – Section 10.5.2

Psychology, definition of – Section 1.1.1

Q

R

Racism, defined and types – Section 9.1.3.1

Random sampling – Section 2.2.3

Rape – Section 10.2.6

Reactance – Section 7.5.1; 7.5.2

Realistic group conflict theory – Section 9.2.4

Reciprocal altruism – Section 11.1.2

Reciprocity – Section 6.2.2.3

Reductionism – Section 1.2.1.1
Reflected appraisals – Section 3.1.4.2
Relational aggression – Section 10.1.1
Relative deprivation – Section 9.2.4
Reliability, defined and types – Section 2.3.1
Religiosity, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.5
Reluctant altruism, and helping behavior – Section 11.3.2
Replication – Section 2.1
Replication crisis – Section 2.5.1
Representativeness heuristic – Section 4.1.4.7
Research design – Section 2.1
Respondent conditioning – Section 9.2.2
Responsibility, personal – Section 11.2.1
Ringelmann – Section 1.2.3
Role schemas – Section 4.1.4.2
Ross – Section 1.2.3
Rumination, and aggression – Section 10.3.6

S

Salience – Section 4.1.3.2
Schachter – Section 1.2.4
Schemas – Section 3.1.2; Section 4.1.4

And memory – Section 4.1.4.5

And heuristics – Section 4.1.4.7

Types of – Section 4.1.4.2

Scientific method – Section 2.1

Seekers, a cult – Section 6.3.1

Self, and culture – Section 3.1.5

Self-awareness – Section 3.2.5

Self-concept – Section 3.1.1

 Stability of – Section 3.1.1.1

Self-conscious emotions, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.4

Self-discrepancies – Section 3.1.3

Self-distancing, and aggression – Section 10.5.3

Self-efficacy – Section 3.2.3

Self-enhancement – Section 3.2.6

Self-esteem – Section 3.2.1

 Across the lifespan – Section 3.2.1.3

 Gender and cross-cultural differences – Section 3.2.1.4

 Types of – Section 3.2.1.2

Self-fulfilling prophecy – Section 4.1.4.6

Self-handicapping – Section 3.2.6

Self-monitoring – Section 3.3.2

Self-perception theory – Section 3.1.2.2; 5.3.1

Self-presentation – Section 3.3.1

Strategies for – Section 3.3.2

Self-promotion – Section 3.3.2

Self-reference effect – Section 3.1.2.4

Self-regulation – Section 3.2.4

Self-schemas – Section 3.1.2

Types of – Section 3.1.2.1

Self-serving bias – Section 3.4.1; Section 4.2.4.2

Self-verification – Section 3.3.2

Sensation – Section 4.1.1.1; Section 4.1.3

Sexism – Section 9.1.3.2

Sexual harassment – Section 10.2.7

Sherif, Carolyn and Muzafer – Section 1.2.4

Smiling – Section 12.1.2.1

Social, definition of – Section 1.1.1

Social attention – Section 8.2.1.2

Social cognition – Section 4.1.2

Social comparison – Section 3.1.4.3

Upward – Section 3.1.4.3

Downward – Section 3.2.6

Social desirability – Section 2.2.3; 3.4.1

Social dominance orientation – Section 9.2.4

Social exchange theory and attraction – Section 12.3.1

and helping behavior – Section 11.2.9

Social facilitation – Section 8.2.1.1

Social identity model of deindividuation effects model (SIDE) – Section 8.2.3.2

Social identity theory – Section 9.2.1

Social loafing – Section 8.2.2.1

Social neuroscience – Section 1.3.1

Social norms – Section 7.2.2

Social proof – Section 6.3.1

Social psychology

- Definition of – Section 1.1.1
- Methods used – Section 1.1.2

Social rejection – Section 12.1.4

- and aggression – Section 10.4.4

Sociology, definition of – Section 1.1.1

Standpoints on the self – Section 3.1.3

Stereotype threat – Section 9.1.1.1

Stereotypes – Section 4.1.4.2; Section 9.1.1.1

Stigmas, types of – Section 9.1.4

Stigmatization – Section 9.1.4

Sumner – Section 1.2.4

Survey – Section 2.2.3

System justification theory – Section 9.2.4

T

Teacher expectancy effect – Section 4.1.4.6

Temperature, and aggression – Section 10.4.7

Terror Management Theory – Section 3.2.2

 And self-esteem – Section 3.2.2.4

Testosterone, and aggression – Section 10.3.2.2

Theory – Section 2.1

Theory of planned behavior – Section 5.2.2.5

Theory of reasoned action – Section 5.2.2.5

Time pressures, and helping behavior – Section 11.2.2

Tolerance – Section 9.3.1

Transduction – Section 4.1.1.1

Triplet – Section 1.2.3

Two-factor theory of emotion – Section 3.1.4.4

U

Unconscious motivation – Section 10.3.1

Uniqueness, need for – Section 7.5.3

Unrealistic optimism – Section 3.4.3

Urban overload hypothesis, and helping behavior – Section 11.3.2

V

Validity, defined and types – Section 2.3.2

Variables, in experiments – Section 2.2.6

Victim blaming – Section 10.3.5

Volunteering – Section 11.4.2

W

Weight discrimination – Section 9.1.3.4

“What is beautiful-is-good” heuristic – Section 6.1.2

Wishful thinking – Section 4.2.4.7

Workplace violence – Section 10.2.2

Wundt – Section 1.2.2

X

Y

Z